'The growth of the Company was enhanced in the last years. Current half year sales revenue was just little behind the whole year sales revenue six years earlier, while current half year export sales revenue and net profit highly exceeded the whole year of 2012. Active international sales activity and capacity boosted up in the last years significantly contributed to headway in the market, furthermore those innovative improvements that both in domestic and in international markets made products of the Printing Company competitive. We could deliver the security documents both in export and domestic sales in spite of the increased demand with the help of all above beside delivering election ballots in this half year, as well. With strategic products the Printing Company owns such a professional knowledge that can be a basis for next years' growth, as well.' – commented Gábor Zsámboki, CEO of ANY Security Printing Company PLC
